CHIEF CLEARY

Relates His Experience as a Delegate Fire Chiefs

At Chicago-Some Reforms He is Anxious to Introduce in His Department-Displays Made. Chief James E. Cleary, of the Fire Department, accompanied by Mr. Jere Sullivan, of the Hook and Ladder Company, have returned from Chicago, where they attended the convention of fire chiefs, and were found at headquarters yesterday, will of their tries and were reliable to the convention of the chiefs. full of their trip and very willing to talk about it. They left Memphis Saturday night a week ago, arriving in plenty of time for the convention, which assembled at noon on Tuesday following, adjourning last Saturday evening at 4 o'clock. A number of the delegates remained over, but Chief Cleary and his assistant packed their carpetsacks at once and returned to the post of duty. Both speak in the warmest terms of the hospitality with which they were treated, and are es-pecially commendatory of FIRE MARSHAL SWEENY, of Chicago, who received them upon their arrival at the hotel, and was on hand to bid them good-bye. The fire companies of Chicago vied with each other in their attentions to the visitors, and not a day passed of which they do not entertain a pleasant recollection. At the headquarters of the Salvage Corps, on Tuesday night, a sumptuous banquet was spread, another being tendered the delegates by the Board of Underwriters of Chicago at Pullman, a suburb of Chicago, the night following. The discussions engaged in by the conven LISTENED TO WITH ATTENTION and always with profit. From them somewhich could not fail to be beneficial. In a large hall adjoining that to which the convention was held there were arranged engines, trucks, ladders, alarms, the latest leary spent a great deal of his time and gathered a great many hints which will be of considerable service to him in the manlays were made in the working of implays were made in the working of improved apparatus by Chicago companies, and were all interesting and instructive. One of these struck the eye of Chief Cleary with marked effect, and will probably result in the abolishment of sheetiron shutters in Memphis. A small house was built, divided by a partition. In either side a similar quantity of tarred barrels were placed. One compartment had two windows,

PROTECTED BY SHEET IRON shutters. The two windows in the other were protected by shutters made of wire with interstices through which the little finger could be thrust. Fire was applied to the combustibles in the inside, and while the sheet-iron shutters warped and become red-hot, the latticed shutters were wholly unaffected. A sheet of paper placed against the outside was not even paper beld. The great advantage in the latopen with an ax to allow the introduc-tion of a hose. So thoroughly was Chief Cleary satisfied with the result of this cru-is left in his mind. He says some of the greatest trouble he has ever experienced these sheet-iron shutters, which are of course, invariably hooked on the inside dre can be raised from the truck to a great hight, up the side of a burning building, also attracted his attention. One of the most striking appurtuanted his account of the duty of citizenship which this society urges. The demand for tract No. 2, being a priced and classified bibliography of works on political economy and political science, was such that the edition was exhausted. The society is now prepared to fill all orders for this valuable tract, most striking appurtenances he saw was and will forward it free to any address, what is known as a water tower, which is post free, on receipt of twenty five cents. nothing more than a telescopic iron pipe, carried closed upon a truck until ready for

to a hight of 100 feet or less. By means of an ingeniously arranged nozzle the streams conducted through it can be thrown at any angle through a window with as much accuracy and effect as if the of an ordinary rubber hose in his hand he tower is simple, light and cheap, and hief Cleary thinks one or two of them ould be a valuable accession to the Fire repartment of Memphis. He will probaembody this suggestion in a report to

of the convention three lectures were de Taxing District contributing but a few dollars. This seems strange, when it is remembered that his trip was purely one of business, and that it cannot fail, with a man like Chief Cleary, to be of benefit to the department and to the city.

One of the objections to loading a mattress with iron attracted to it, or to putting more work on it than is done at present, is that it increased the expense, which it would be possible to raise, to such a point that walls of solid masonry would be cheaper. First Day of the Louisville Fall Meeting Louisville, September 16.—The fall meeting of the Louisville Jockey Club began to day. Weather good, track in bad condition being very deep in dust, otherwise fair. A FAREWELL entertainment was given last evening to his daughter Miss (elia, who leaves this morning for (incinnati to resume her studies at the excellent insti-tution which she has attended for the maiden allowances, three-quarters of a mile. Mona was never headed throughpast four years. During the course of the silowances, one mile heats. At the lower turn John Sullivan took the lead, winning while the musical programme was carried out by Misses Rebecca Lowenstein, Jennie Baum and Hattie Hirsch. The entertainment was a delightful one in every respect, and is likely to form a bright spot in the memory of the young lady in whose honor it was given, during the whole of the session.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

It is said that the women of Sparta were probably not so honest as ours.

Third Race.—Turf stakes, all sges, penaltics and allowances, mile and a furlong. Starters: The Admiral, Tom Martin, Billy Gilmore, John Davis, Chance, Leman, Aleck Ament and Leman bunched. At the lower turn Tom Martin, and the languages carefully taucht, which reading in each department is thorong and printing. The women who were at the Augusta polis are described as "elderly ladies, neatly dressed, and of very determined appearance."

"Au, isn't she a duck?" cried an admirer, as the doctor's daughter passed.

and the sweepings of the road, harnessed to a cart with a dog!" Fancy that, and that is but a part of the dradgery of wife the of the European farmer.

MME. THEO is studying English. She labors diligently. She has just translated a piece of French in brilliant style, as follows: "When Arsene Houssaye was directing the Comedie Francase, an author dramatic him submitted a new play, which he was convinced, said he, would achieve a success enormous. Before to commence the lecture of the play before the societaires the author made a curt address explanatory: 'In end to better comprehend and appreciate this piece it will be necessary,' was saying he, 'to you transport to the England.' M. Houssaye him stopped.''

MRS. MARIA VINTON DAHLGERN, the the England. M. Houssaye him stopped."

Mrs. Maria Vinton Dahleren, the widow of Admiral Dahlgren, who wrote a book about the follies and foibles of fashionable life in Washington, found it well to flee the capital and hie her to the crest of South Mountain. There, where the battle was fought, she lives in a charming old stone house and sharpens her quill for other literary work. Not long ago she was thrown from her carriage and badly injured—the fourth accident of the kind undergone by her. She thinks that she had better buy a good, reliable mule, and thus have a gentle beast to mule, and thus have a gentle beast to drive. FOR STRENGTH AND TRUE FRUIT FLAVOR THEY STAND ALONE. A Letter from Germany to the Boston
